STUDYING AS A FUNDAMENTAL SKILL
FOR THE FUTURE

After several decades, there has been a significant change in the way we think about learning and teaching. The focus has shifted from the teacher to the learner, and the learning process is now seen as a continuous, lifelong journey.

A photograph of a termite nest in a forest. The nest is a large, grey, mushroom-shaped structure made of mud or soil, with a thick, textured surface. It has a wide, flared top and a narrower base. The nest is situated on a tree trunk, surrounded by green leaves and branches. The background is a dense forest with various plants and trees.
